Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The First Pilgrim Holiness Church, now known as the Wesleyan Church of Mardela Springs, occupies a single-story frame building on the north side of Railroad Avenue across from its intersection with Bacon Street in the northwestern corner of Mardela Springs, Wicomico County, Maryland. The building faces south with the gable roof oriented on a north/south axis.

Built in 1926, the single-story frame church is supported on rusticated concrete block foundation and the exterior is clad with vinyl siding. The medium pitched gable roof is covered with asphalt shingles. Dominating the church is two-story entrance tower topped by a crenelated parapet.

The south (main) elevation is symmetrical facade with the entrance tower flanked by six-over-six sash windows. The first floor is pierced by a double door entrance with five-panel doors, and a louvered vent pierces the second level. Rising through the top of the tower and partially disguised by the parapet is a furnace stack. Fixed in the southeast corner of the concrete block foundation is a marble datestone inscribed "1st Pilgrim Holiness Church, Mardela Springs, 1926."

Each side of the church is defined by three six-over-six sash windows, and the rear (north) wall is covered by a single story addition erected during the mid to late twentieth century. The gable roof has a shallower pitch.

The interior was not seen.
